"The light is coming from the sun. This photo symbolizes how light will always shine on dark places."

By: Thomas

The light is reflecting off the water. In the background the clouds are starting to roll in. This photo reminds us to make the most of good times because eventually the clouds and rain will come.

"The light is shining through the tree. This photo reminds me how to be calm and have patience in things because some trees take a long time to grow and it shows that we should sometimes take things slow because it's the beauty that needs patience. It represents life and energy because the tree uses the sunlight as it's energy and life source."

"In this picture, you can see the trees reflecting on the crystal clear water. It made me reflect on how radiant nature is and to be mindful of the living things around me. This symbolizes the peacefulness and serenity of our world."

"This is a picture I captured, of the multi coloured birdhouses, on a tree in our backyard. The light is delicately reflecting on the tree bark, yet still making the birdhouses explode with richness and sparkle in the sunlight. I love this photo, because it brings back many of the memories that I have cherished, painting the birdhouses with my friends, family, peers and just recalling those moments makes me smile. :) This photo symbolizes belonging & acceptance, because it demonstrates how everything (even birds) should have a home, or a place where they are included and can express themselves. Overall, this photo reminds us that we all should stay home and stay safe." 😊
